

Hancock and Sharon Osbourne pen letters to their 16-year-old selves, offering words of encouragement, comfort, warning and advice. The oldest contributor, Liz Smith, will launch the book on the "Paul O'Grady Show" where there will be a major segment. There will be a major segment on Sunday Times and other national TV. John will win £1 from his bookscan to go to his A handbook to the historical facts and myths in The Lost Symbol, and I'm told, the only one to take its lead from the new novel

...ing he'll have read it (presumably). It's a M&M's

Being, Seeing, and Feeling and includes essays on going to the Oscars, British comedy, Katherine Hepburn and Barack Obama. "A gift to readers, writers and all who want to at life more expansively," says HH. The jacket is lovely too. BookScan ★★☆☆

Martin: The Secret Great War
of Albert Martin
Fiction, 2nd, h/b, £18.99,

... author of The Last Fight... my edits and introduce... war journals of another ordinary soldier, written in secret and undiscovered for many years. Called up in September 1916 to serve with the Royal Engineers, Martin saw action in the Somme and Ypres and was demobilised after the Armistice. With the recent death of the last Tommy himself, Harry Patch, these books have taken on an extra poignancy and significance.
